The Principal, Dr. M. Renu, delivered the Presidential address welcoming the guests and laid the groundwork for the Seminar. She spoke on the essential and immediate need for a healthy global connection in times of confusion and conflict caused by suspicion and distrust of the 'Other'. Languages could help bridge these gaps and make other cultures more accessible and people more approachable creating an atmosphere that's more conducive to creating a world of peace and trust.

Mr. Hartmann, who has served in different parts of the world as an American diplomat, was enthusiastic in the profession of his love of languages as he could speak nearly 15 languages himself. He encouraged the students to learn as many languages as they can but be proficient in at least a few that would enable them to understand the world better. He encouraged the use of technology and especially mobile applications besides classroom exercises to improve ones' grasp of a certain language. He spoke of the many monetary benefits resulting from language proficiency like landing exceptional jobs in the global market or acting as ambassadors for their own countries etc.,

The students asked several questions like what kind of programs or courses are available for learning English language and which would be the most reliable etc., which were all satisfactorily answered by the resource person and accompanying guests like Dr. Brinda, Access Program Coordinator, Chennai.
